Gunman Out Of Prison On Appeal Bond

By JIM DONAHUE
South Haven Bureau

A convicted felon, out of prison on bond pending an appeal in circuit court, winged a state trooper before being felled by a police bullet when he chose to shoot it out with troopers on Coloma road, about two miles west of Coloma Sunday morning.

State police at South Haven said David Ray Williams, 31, Watervliet, was admitted under 24-hour police guard at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, where he was being treated for a bullet wound in the shoulder and chest. His wounds were described as serious.

Trooper Jack Brandel, who was injured at the scene, was treated by hospital personnel for a flesh wound on his left arm before being released. Brandel said a bullet ripped through his leather holster cover and shirt sleeve and skinned his arm just above the elbow.

Trooper Brandel said when he returned home and removed his trousers to retire, he found a bullet in one of his hip pockets. He said he believes the slug struck his arm and dropped into the pocket.

According to police reports, Brandel and Trooper Neil Dailey were forced to exchange gun shots with Williams in an early-morning duel after they had stopped a car driven by Williams for running a stop sign.

THREE CHARGES
Williams will be charged with two counts of felonious assault with intent to commit murder and an additional charge of conspiracy to commit burglary, police said.

Two other men who were passengers in the Williams car were arrested on charges of conspiracy to commit burglary and as material witnesses. Arrested and lodged today in the Berrien county jail were Sonnie Miller, 22, route 4, Paw Paw Lake road, and Larry Ragsdale, 16, route 1, Boyer road, Coloma.

Williams, who had been sentenced to Southern Michigan prison in 1962 after stabbing a state trooper, has been out of prison on bond since December 13, 1966, while awaiting an appeal of his sentence in circuit court.

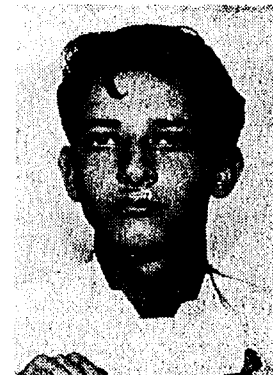

Since his release from prison in December, Williams has been arrested on two separate occasions on felony counts. He was arrested immediately after his release on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, which was connected with the original case, and then in January by police in Cass county on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

South Havenite Held As Hit-Run Killer!

BH Woman Is Victim

Mrs. Fred (Evelyn) Jones, 52, of 152 Concord court, Benton Harbor, was pronounced dead on arrival Sunday morning at Mercy hospital, after she had been struck by a hit and run car at Main and Pine streets, Benton township.

An examining doctor said she died of multiple fractures and internal injuries.

Benton township police were holding Harold W. Golladay, 28, of route 5, South Haven, for arraignment today on four charges in connection with the fatality: drunk and disorderly, leaving the scene of a fatal accident, leaving the scene of a property damage accident and driving on a revoked or suspended license.

WATER TRAIL
Police arrested Golladay after they trailed a stream of water from the scene of the accident to where his car was stuck in a water-filled ditch on Main street, just east of Crystal avenue.

Police said witnesses informed them a car left the scene of the accident with its lights off and hood up. It then collided with another auto which had just backed out of a driveway at 1060 East Main street.

Driver of the second car, Rosalie Redfield, 38, of 789 East Washington street, Benton Harbor, said the car didn't stop and she followed it east on Main street. She said she was unable to make the driver stop, but she did get the license number of his car.

The fatality occurred about 1:30 a.m. Sunday. Police said the victim was lying about 128 feet from where she was apparently struck by the car. The car driven by Mrs. Redfield was struck approximately another 150 feet away.

The fatality brings the total 1967 traffic deaths in Berrien county to 13. Mrs. Jones was the fifth pedestrian killed by a car this year and the fourth pedestrian fatality in this five-block area on Main street since December, 1965. One of the other three was also a hit and run.

BORN IN SOUTH

Mrs. Jones, a resident of Benton Harbor for the past eight years, was born in Lela, Miss., Jan. 11, 1913, the daughter of Arthur and Nannie Jackson.

Besides her husband, survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Earline Taylor of 152 Concord court, Benton Harbor; three grandchildren; her father, Arthur of Detroit; a brother, Wilbert of Detroit; and three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Pearson and Mrs. Viola Jones of Detroit and Mrs. Flora Hayes of route 1, Benton Harbor.

State Draft Call Is Boosted

LANSING (AP) — Michigan draft boards will order 1,174 registrants to report for regular induction into the Army in June — the largest draft call since last November when 2,923 registrants were called.

In addition to those reporting for regular induction, 162 milited service registrants who are now acceptable under Defense Department standards will be called, said Col. Arthur A. Holmes, State Selective Service director.

Holmes said preinduction physical examinations will be resumed during May and June.

The exams had not been held since January due to lack of funds.

Induction calls are being filled with volunteers and single registrants and those married after Aug. 26, 1965, ages 19 through 25, with the oldest available registrant selected first.

The may call totaled 1,009. The draft call for southwest Michigan counties: Allegan 3; Barry 4; Berrien 26; Cass 1; St. Joseph 2; Van Buren 0.

Thoughts For Law Day

Today the nation's attorneys in countless communities are celebrating Law Day and over in Moscow the Communists are commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Not quite ten years ago the then President Eisenhower, at the request of the American Bar Association, proclaimed May 1st as Law Day to point out the contrast of what is like to live under two conflicting theories of government.

Across the seas and behind the Iron Curtain the individual counts for little. His activity is carefully routine by the opinion of somebody a notch above him in the political structure.

In the U.S. the individual is raised to that mathematical theorem of the whole never exceeding the sum of its parts.

Dramatizing this distinction is difficult. Nobody would pay much attention to a parade of lawyers and judges marching down the street, whereas even the most pushed about man in Moscow is excited by curiosity to see what the latest weapons and uniforms in the Red Army may be.

The American barrister, perforce, is limited to a court room ceremony or a luncheon, such as is being held here, to extend to recognition to a lay member of the community with a strong record of civic service.

Six months from now the nation's publishers conduct a parallel demonstration called Newsboy Week. Its outward theme is a salute to the youngster who has the gumption to earn money by his own effort rather than tap his parents for it. Underneath is our trade's contribution to the American way of life, the thesis being that the guaranty for making democracy work is a dispassionate revelation of its day to day workings.

The recent squaring off between the bar and the press on crime news coverage commends on to the thought that since these two powerful forces are interested in the same goal, namely, keeping the democratic process alive, their commemorative activities might by merged a step to achieve more harmony in the ranks.

A vocal segment in the bar is trying to push all of its members, particularly in the courts, into a censoring unit.

The Lindbergh kidnapping case in 1932 and the Sacco-Vanzetti trial in Boston a decade earlier stirred the first rumblings against any pre-trial publication on a defendant beyond the bare bone facts of his arrest, the charge against him, his name and his residence.

It has revived today as a reaction to the Dr. Sam Shepard case at Cleveland.

Under rules proposed by several state bar associations a judge could use his power of contempt citation, or the threat of it, to silence the police, the prosecutor and also the defense attorney from disclosing the contents of confessions, the criminal record of the suspect and the evidentiary details of the crime. These could be revealed only as brought out during the progress of the trial.

The argument for the stricture is that the so called "trial by newspaper" renders it impossible or at best extremely difficult to select jurors whose minds are not already inflamed against the defendant.

Paradoxically, the proposal arises at a time when the crime rate already is at an historic level and promises to go even higher.

Lawyer committees and newspaper association representatives are trying to resolve the debate of free press vs. fair trial. Thus far the conferees are no closer together than those TV debates between political opponents which in their opening statements define the issues and then for the ensuing hour or half hour degenerate into campaign speeches.

This is not to say a compromise may never be reached as a desirable alternative, but the unrealistic position of the fair trial purists does not help to set a clear atmosphere at the bargaining table.

The crime rate, already mentioned, is fairly good evidence that not many defendants are being shoved into prison because a jury had decided upon their guilt before being impelled.

The Shepard case is a Lone Ranger example of the exception to this condition.

It is interesting to note, however, that its flamboyant publicity arose almost by agreement between the press and the bar. The trial judge, then up for re-election, was sounding off like firecrackers at a Chinese New Year's. His statements, given the full treatment in the Cleveland newspapers, had the defendant in prison before the trial ever commenced.

The aftermath of the Kennedy assassination is another illustration raised by the fair trial proponents for muzzling the press.

The argument runs that the Dallas police were so anxious to get on TV that they made it simple for Jack Ruby to gun down Lee Harvey Oswald. Oswald's murder, continues the argument, was a vigilante type of action directed by a mind excited through Oswald's exposure on the cameras following his arrest. In essence, Oswald was convicted and sentenced before standing trial.

This plausible reasoning overlooks two facts.

One is that, fortunately, the country does not experience a Presidential assassination every day in the week, and when it does happen, everyone becomes rattled for a while.

The second is, as pointed out in the Warren Commission's report, the Dallas police force was guilty of more than one breach in its security arrangements. This is an internal problem in administration which, if not condoned prior to the assassination, was undetected. Oswald's murder merely brought to light certain deficiencies which a well run police department would not tolerate.

Finally, the law and the lawyers have a problem more serious than the press coverage of comparatively rare criminal trials which should be of greater concern.

This is the slowing down in the entire legal process making it more difficult every day for essential decisions to be given.

Just a few weeks ago we published an interview with Berrien's two circuit judges who point out how their court is so swamped that meritorious civil actions may languish three years between being filed and being heard.

The villain is the rising criminal work load and the tedious procedures being tacked to it by the appellate courts.

Fair trial, it occurs to us, applies to more people than those picked up by the police for some wrongdoing.

Law Day would be an appropriate occasion to work out a method to make the law function better for everyone, not just a select minority.

Talk About Escalation?

Efforts directed toward world disarmament were encountering difficulties enough before the most recent setback, which almost ranks as an act of rampant militarism.

A European nation, ignoring signs of increasing stability and easing of continental tensions, has decided to increase its armed forces by an astounding 33 1/3 per cent.

It would be unfortunate if this impulsive move were to prompt suspicious European neighbors to unilateral mobilizations of their own. It would be wiser to rely on the good offices of the United Nations and U Thant to determine whether Liechtenstein's motives are sincere and whether it really needs 28 men to do what its 21-man armed forces have been able to do for so long.

Inside Washington

By HENRY CATHCART

WASHINGTON — If someone adapted a popular television game to the White House and asked: "Will the real Lyndon B. Johnson stand up?" at least two and probably three, tall, Texas-type individuals would rise from their chairs.

The most widespread impression of the President is that of a rough, tough, ruthless type — a driver and wheeler-dealer who demands the utmost of those around him, listens but little to advice and plays politics to the hilt.

However, there are a number of individuals, many of them Republicans, who have attended one of a series of recent gatherings at the White House, and who are depicting a much different kind of fellow. Their differing impressions stem from a basic bit of knowledge around

Washington — that President Johnson is at his best when talking to small informal groups without the "benefit" of a set text.

Obviously, Johnson is preoccupied with the subject of Vietnam. When he has discussed this subject at these meetings, according to bi-partisan impressions from among those attending, he is "totally convincing, totally charming, sometimes mesmerizing" in his effect. Further, Mr. Johnson has this effect, not on individuals who are unused to dealing with high Washington leaders, but on hardened, cynical political professionals.

One Republican described him as "free, unguarded, frank and candid; it was quite exciting to hear him state his views openly." Another commented: "He could charm the birds out of the trees."

The ultimate accolade was paid by Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio, a Republican, who at the end of a dinner for governors who had avoided a commitment on Vietnam, was so carried away that, in proposing a toast, he declared:

"In this day, in this hour, no man is an island. This is an hour when you stand up . . . Even though I am of the opposite political party, I know in unity there is success . . . I ask you in this hour . . . that we drink a toast and stand back of the President and the conflict and the struggle in the rice paddies of Vietnam."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A fine semi-pro baseball team was so plagued by a series of injuries that a set of key games had to be played with a second-string shortstop patrolling left field. In seven innings of the deciding contest, this hapless converted infielder dropped three flies, let two grounders skip through his legs, and fired four throw-ins over the third baseman's head and into the visitors' bench.

Outraged, the manager chased the culprit at this point, and took over the left field sector himself, where, quicker than you could say Willie Davis, he committed four grievous and damaging errors himself. When the inning finally was over, he charged into the dugout, threw his glove at his substitute shortstop, and snarled, "You got left field so loused up, you bum, that even I couldn't play it!"

One of the most famous writers of books for children reluctantly consented to appear for an autographing party at a big department store at the height of the holiday rush, and was promptly besieged by an army of fans — aged five to eight. One eager little girl climbed boldly into his lap and asked, "Did you really write all those books yourself?" Assured that he had, she then demanded, "How did you get the lines so straight?"

speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

What is the immediate home remedy for a bump on the head that is beginning to turn black and blue?

A black and blue mark on the head, or anywhere on the body, means that a blood vessel has been broken by the injury and that blood is seeping into the soft tissues. The very first and immediate remedy should be pressure over the site of the injury.

Then ice packs should be used in order to slow down the seepage of combination. Dr. Coleman generally is excellent for injuries.

When the bleeding has stopped, as it does with pressure after a half hour or more, heat can later be applied to hasten the recovery of the hurt tissues. Heat helps to absorb the blood under the skin more rapidly and facilitates the return of the soft tissues to their normal condition.

During the past ten years a new idea has been used successfully for the more rapid absorption of blood after an injury. A special type of enzyme is now taken in tablet form.

In a very complex way these enzymes help to reduce the swelling and make the black and blue marks disappear more rapidly. Technically these marks are known as ecchymoses. Many a good and expensive steak has been wasted when it was applied to the "shiner" to make it disappear quickly.

Actually, it made good sense from a medical point of view. The beef steak was set but did no more good than an ordinary cold compress.

Are dishpan hands an infection or an allergy? How can they be prevented?

Dishpan hands, nurses' hands and dentists' hands are three of the many contact skin conditions which plague people who constantly immerse their hands in solution. The redness, itching, soreness, blistering and inflammation of the skin is almost always an allergic or sensitivity reaction to "something" in the water.

Laundry soaps, detergents, chemicals, lacquer, sprays and harsh cleansers, along with almost everything that the skin can come in contact with, can cause these symptoms in a sensitive person. Eczema is a descriptive term for the rawness, but this, too, is a form of skin allergy.

Every once in a while a person by trial and error can find the offending substance and eliminate it. It takes a great deal of detecting to find the culprit because there are so many possibilities.

I know a patient who developed a skin reaction to the glue that her husband used in his furniture factory and brought home on his work clothes. This gives you some idea of how far one must seek to find the cause. One by one the substances must be eliminated if they are at all suspected.

Rubber gloves are only moderately protective. Too often water collects in the gloves, softens the skin and makes it cracked and invaded by germs.

This causes an infection on top of the allergy, making the whole picture a distressing mess. Silicone creams, cortisone ointments and antibiotic and anti-allergy salves must only be used under the direction of a doctor.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH—Give your children the advantage of all vaccines.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Opening lead — six of clubs. This remarkable hand was played in the 1965 mixed team of four championship. As usual, the board-a-match method of scoring was used.

In board-a-match, each deal is regarded as a separate unit. You win a point by getting a better result with the same cards than the opposing pair at the other table, win half a point if the result is a tie, or get nothing at all if your team is outscored.

The margin by which you beat the opponents is of no consequence. To outscore a team by 1,000 points on a deal is worth no more than outscoring ing them by 10 points. All you get in either case is one match point.

At one table, where Helen Portugal of Los Angeles was West and Eric Murray of Toronto was East, the bidding went as shown.

Mrs. Portugal led a club and Murray cashed the A-K and returned the eight of diamonds. Declarer won with the ace and led a trump. Mrs. Portugal went up with the ace, dummy unblocking the queen, and returned a trump.

South drew two rounds of trumps, led the ten of spades, and finessed in a legitimate effort to make the contract. He reasoned he had nothing to lose by finessing the ten, for even if it lost to the queen, he would then be able to discard two diamond losers and still go down only one.

South was quite happy when both defenders followed low and the ten won the trick. But his smile vanished completely when he repeated the finesse and Murray astonishingly showed up with the queen. South had to lose a diamond trick later and would up going down two — 200 points.

At the second table, declarer went down only one at four hearts when East grabbed the ten of spades with the queen, and the result of Murray's extraordinary play was that he won the board instead of halving it.

BORN TODAY

English poet, essayist, critic and statesman Joseph Addison was born in Wiltshire in 1672.

He began his literary career, at the age of 21 with a poetical address to Dryden. The following year his "Account of the Great English Poets" and a translation of the fourth book of the "Georgics" appeared.

Under the patronage of Lord Halifax he obtained a pension and spent four years on the continent.

Upon his return he wrote his epic poem "The Campaign," celebrating Marlborough's victory at Blenheim. His enormous success secured him his first political post.

His musical play "Rosmond" was an attack on popular Italian operas, and his blank verse tragedy "Cato" combined an appeal to the party spirit of the Whigs with an avowed intention to purge the state of immorality.

Addison's literary fame, however, rests upon the essays he wrote for The Tatler, founded in 1709 by Richard Steele, and its successor, The Spectator, launched in 1711.

Addison perfected the essay as a literary form, established a prose style that was the model until the end of the 18th century, and his comments on manners and morals were widely influential in forming the middle class ideal of the citizen.

Others born today include astronomer Sir John Lubbock, artist George Innes, singer Kate Smith, conductor Howard Barlow, astronaut Scott Carpenter, actor Glenn Ford.

Top Rating For 3 Area Bands

Honored At State Contest In Grand Rapids

Bands from three southwestern Michigan high schools were awarded Division I ratings—designating excellent performances—in the state band finals contest Saturday at Grand Rapids.

These top ratings went to bands from Benton Harbor, St. Joseph and Buchanan high schools in their respective classes.

Division II ratings were accorded to the orchestra from St. Joseph and the bands from Dowagiac and Lakeshore high schools.

In recognition of its Division I rating in Class AA, the Benton Harbor band was greeted on its return home late Saturday from Grand Rapids by a police car and fire truck escort and Benton Harbor Mayor Wilbert Smith at the approaches to the city. Parents, band alumni and city officials then met the group at the school. The 110-piece band was directed by Bernard M. Kuschel.

The St. Joseph band and the orchestra played in the Class A finals under the baton of Director Robert W. Brown. The band played at Wyoming Park high school in Grand Rapids and the orchestra in Jackson Park junior high.

The St. Joseph musicians all had appeared in scholarship concerts Friday night before getting up at 5 a.m. Saturday to go to the state contests.

The Buchanan band won its top Division I rating in the Class B events in Grand Rapids.

Lakeshore also competed in Class B and Dowagiac in Class A.

To participate in the state finals, staged by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra association, the musical units all had earlier won Division I rankings in district contests.

But Only Few From Area There

Marathon Event Held 24 Hours In High School

BRIDGMAN — A 24-hour group dynamics marathon that ended at 7 p.m. Saturday was termed "very, very successful" by its sponsor, Daniel Kralik, Bridgman high school principal.

It was attended by 65 persons coming from as far as Dayton, Ohio, Chicago, Kalamazoo, East Lansing and a group of 10 from Aurora, Ill.

Those present were divided into groups of 10 or more to discuss life in general, the problems of others and, most importantly, according to Kralik, themselves. This last phase he cited as by far the most difficult to talk about.

Kralik said that some who had not participated in group dynamics previously called the marathon one of the most worthwhile experiences in their lives. Others who had previously participated called this particular session very worthwhile, the principal said.

RESIDENTS STAY AWAY

He did admit disappointment that more people from Bridgman did not participate. There were only six Bridgman residents present, he said, adding that one of the reasons for holding it in town was to attract residents to give them some understanding of group dynamics as well as personal satisfaction.

A misunderstanding has developed in the community over group dynamics classes offered in the high school, he said.

Kralik concluded that the persons present Friday and Saturday represented a good cross-section of society.

There were 12 group leaders present. They were:

John Suehr, a professor at Michigan State university; Joseph Bechard, principal of Troy, Mich., high school; Dick Reed, an administrative intern at Lamphreys high school in Royal Oak; the Rev. Joe Simons, dean of students at Notre Dame university; Mr. and Mrs. John Tidgewell, Dakota, Ill., experienced in group dynamics; Jack Riegle, principal of Chippewa middle school, Saginaw; Howard Chunoweth, principal of Walled Lake, Mich., junior high school; George Truckey, principal of Ravenna, Mich., high school; Jack Paul, Bridgman high school counselor; Norman Sterchele, Bridgman high school teacher, and Kralik.

Say Driver Almost Hit Police Car

No Doctor To Give Drunk Test

St. Joseph police said they arrested Donald Lawrence Pechtel, 41, of 830 Pine street, St. Joseph, when he drove his auto straight at a patrolling squad car and charged him with drunk driving—a charge later reduced to two lesser charges when a doctor declined to administer a blood test.

Patrolmen Jack Root and Cliff Munsen reported that while on routine patrol they had to swerve their patrol car sharply to miss being struck by a car driven by Pechtel.

They reported that after Pechtel was brought to the station he agreed to taking a blood test but insisted on having a particular doctor. The arrest was made at 4:20 a.m. Sunday. Police reported the doctor declined to go to Memorial hospital to administer the test and a check at Mercy hospital revealed no doctors available to administer the test.

Police reduced the driving under intoxicating liquor charge to drunk and disorderly and reckless driving.

Food Stamp Program Is Delayed

Won't Start Until June In Berrien

Start of the federal food stamp program in Berrien county has been delayed until June, Berrien Social Services Director Wesley Bowerman announced today.

Postponement of the program came because forms needed to get it underway have not arrived, Bowerman said. The program is designed to provide a food budget supplement for low income families. The program had been scheduled to open May 1.

Bowerman said the surplus commodities store in Benton Harbor will remain open until the new program begins operation. Those eligible for commodities can come to the store on the same dates as in the past.

Are Our News Quiz Questions Too Easy?

This Week's Puzzlers May Be Challenge

A few dedicated newspaper readers with phenomenal memories have been razzing the weekly News Quiz staff about "easy" questions.

Enough is enough, said the staff, and they pulled out all the stops on this week's quiz—appearing today on page 13.

If taking the quizzes regularly has whetted your appetite for harder stuff, try gnawing on these: What state is Sen. George McGovern from? What's the meaning of mitigate? Who is Kurt Kiesinger? What country is holding a presidential election May 3?

They're just a sample from the 25 memory-stretchers that draw heavily on recent national and international news.

The quiz is not quite as hard as it seems, since all are multiple choice. Thus you can decide, for example, whether Kurt Kiesinger is a Greek premier, a cosmonaut, a West German official, a possible presidential candidate, or an Army commander.

Whirlpool Promotes Two Men

Wampach To Head Marion Division

Lloyd Wampach of Stevensville, director of planning and manufacturing engineering for Whirlpool corporation's laundry group since 1958, has been named general manager of the firm's Marion (Ohio) division.

Wampach replaces Clarence H. Freeman at Marion. Freeman, at one time a foreman in St. Joseph, has been promoted to general manager of the new Whirlpool manufacturing division under construction at Findlay, Ohio.

The 500,000 square foot Findlay plant is scheduled to begin building automatic dryers and dishwashers later this year, and will build all dishwashers and disposers starting in 1968.

Automatic dryer production will be shared at both Marion and Findlay plants.

FAMILY MOVING
The Wampachs, of James Drive, Stevensville, will move in late summer to Marion. They have four children, Jeffrey, 12; Daniel, 10; Patricia, 6; and Trude Ann, 3.

Wampach, a native of St. Cloud, Minn., and graduate of the University of Minnesota and the University of Toledo, joined Whirlpool in 1955 as corporate personnel manager.

He transferred to the Clyde (Ohio) division in 1959 as manager of personnel services and became director of materials at Clyde in 1963.

Wampach became director of planning and manufacturing engineering for the Laundry Group in 1966.

Freeman joined Whirlpool in 1949 as a production foreman at the St. Joseph division and transferred to the Marion (Ohio) division in 1955 as superintendent of assembly.

He was named general manager of the Marion division in 1963 after a short stint as plant manager for the range division.

No Pay, So The Regular Drivers Quit

Allegan County Police Officers Learn First Aid

ALLEGAN — Allegan county sheriff's deputies today stood ready to answer ambulance calls in the eastern section of the county after four drivers for a private ambulance firm quit their jobs at noon Sunday.

Chief Deputy Rudy Whitney, a qualified Red Cross first aid instructor, started a crash program of instructing deputies in advanced first aid after the four drivers for Oehle Action Ambulance Co., Grand Rapids, informed county Prosecutor Erwin Andrews and the sheriff's department Saturday afternoon that they would quit as of Sunday noon.

Sheriff Robert Whitcomb said the ambulance service's Allegan office has been closed for a week because the rent has not been paid. He said calls have been taken in the home of Everett Kaylor, one of the drivers.

Kaylor said the drivers have been paid only one week's salary in the last three weeks.

ANSWERING ALL CALLS

Sheriff's deputies using a county-owned ambulance will answer emergency calls anywhere in the county although they will concentrate mostly in the Allegan-Otsego-Plainwell area.

Funeral directors in Fennville, Saugatuck, Douglas and Holland areas are continuing their regular ambulance service.

Peter M. Huttiga of Grand Rapids, manager of the ambulance firm, served notice on April 20 that it would cease all operations in Allegan county by noon on April 28. An injunction was served by Prosecutor Andrews in Allegan County Circuit court to prevent the company from carrying out the threat.

Kaylor said that Huttiga's lawyer had told him not to pay any bills in the county until the injunction is lifted.

Efforts of a committee of Allegan county supervisors to provide even a temporary solution to the county's ambulance problems were stalemated at a special board session last Thursday. At that time a motion to release from service one of Action Ambulance's three vehicles operating in Allegan county under the court order was defeated.

Losing money

Huttiga, prior to the introduction of the committee motion had said he would attempt to operate the service in the eastern half of the county with two ambulances, phasing out the Wayland operation. Huttiga said he had been forced to take drastic action because his financial losses were running around $5,000 in the first 11 weeks of operation in Allegan county.

At noon yesterday the Action ambulance from Allegan and one from Plainwell were parked in the Huttig Motors garage in downtown Allegan. The garage

'NICE FOR NEIGHBORS'

Family Pitches In, Removes Home Damaged By Tornado

By JIM DONOHUE
South Haven Bureau

PEARL — A vacant field in the community of Pearl now stands without a shred of evidence that the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hoyt stood there before it was struck by a tornado that ripped through the area on April 21.

"We wanted it to be nice for the neighbors", explained Mrs. Hoyt as she looked sadly over the field where her home of 40 years had stood.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt felt they did not want to rebuild the home that was badly damaged in the tornado and have purchased a small dwelling in Fennville.

PROUD OF CHILDREN

The woman's pride in her children was quite evident as she explained how they had helped with the financial arrangements and had assisted in the clean-up operation of the land where their home had stood. "It would have been impossible by ourselves, the children have worked so hard", Mrs. Hoyt said.

The Hoyt children helped them clear the house and grounds of family papers, pictures and belongings that could be salvaged. They then tore down the damaged dwelling and set fire to the debris.

A son-in-law, Quentin Howard, who operates a tree trimming service in Kalamazoo, brought in heavy equipment and bulldozed the smoldering embers underground. Even the Hoyt grandchildren helped by picking up shingles, papers and twisted bits of debris until not a sign of the destruction remains.

Deputy Ronald Duchene said the ambulance equipped by the sheriff department meets all standards set by Medicare.

Cass Agent Gets New Assignment

Going Up North — Reluctantly

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

CASSOPOLIS — Cass County Home Extension Agent Agnes Gregarek, ordered to a new job after 22 years in Cass county, says she will transfer to an Extension Service assignment in Oscoda and Alcona counties.

Miss Gregarek early today said she expected to move today to the new home economics post at Harrisville. Her transfer was to be effective May 1.

The transfer, she said, "has been a shock to me, and it is a very difficult one to make because of continued medical treatment."

"I have been forced to go."

MAY ENDANGER HEALTH

In a statement, she said: "Geographical separation (from Cassopolis) is too extensive to be consistent with the imperative professional advice of my doctors, who have been doing diligent important follow-ups and study regarding a relatively recent personal health problem."

Miss Gregarek lacks 18 months of completing 25 years in the Extension Service. Most of it has been spent in Cass county.

Mrs. Louis (Lucile) Duck, co-chairman of the Cass Home Economics council, said her group's appeal to keep Miss Gregarek in Cass county bearing signatures of councilwomen and most Cass county supervisors would be sent today or Tuesday to MSU President John Hannah and the MSU Board of Trustees.

PETITION PREPARED

Most councilwomen and all but three supervisors had signed the petition by late last week, she said.

It asks that Miss Gregarek's transfer be rescinded and says petitioners feel "that the administrative resistance and refusal to avoid detrimental staff upheavals has been damaging to all concerned."

The general reaction to the appeal, Mrs. Duck said, is: "They're all in favor of us keeping her, and they can't understand why after 23 years they want to transfer her."

"That's it — nobody seems to know why."

Council Chairman Mrs. Harold Moller was critical of the university for not having a stated policy on transfers.

Miss Gregarek's transfer follows that of former Cass County Agriculture Agent Harold Sparks, who resigned in 1965 rather than accept a transfer to a lesser St. Clair county 4-H post.

Elvis Will Marry Old Sweetheart

Met While He Was With Army

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Singer-actor Elvis Presley and his longtime sweetheart, Priscilla Beaulieu, received a marriage license today, a Clark County official reported.

Presley, 32, and Miss Beaulieu, 21, avoided newsmen and gave no indication of where or when they would be married. Major Las Vegas hotels and wedding chapels said the couple had made no plans with them.

Presley finished a film in Hollywood last Thursday, then reportedly went to his big, secluded home in Palm Springs in the Southern California desert.

Presley met Miss Beaulieu while he was stationed with the Army in Germany in 1959. She is from Memphis, Tenn., Presley's home town, and is the daughter of Lt. Col. Joseph Beaulieu, who is stationed at Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

Friends said Miss Beaulieu accompanied Presley to Hollywood during the past year or two when he came to make movies.

In 1959 Presley had said of Miss Beaulieu, then a high school student in Frankfurt, Germany: "I like her very much." Both said then their relationship was not serious. They dated for four months before Presley left for the United States to be discharged.
